WES offers two evaluation options: Document-by-Document and Course-by-Course. The former starts at $115 USD or $130 CAD, while the latter starts at $182 USD or $237 CAD. Both services provide an equivalency summary to help immigration purposes. WES is designated by IRCC for Evaluations for Immigration (ECA). Additionally, they offer a CPA Supplemental Report to evaluate accounting and business courses for aspiring CPAs. Both Document-by-Document and Course-by-Course evaluations include essential details such as course names, institutions, subjects, and passing years. The former is suitable for first-year admissions, job applications, and US immigration document submissions, while the latter is ideal for graduate and transfer admissions, along with certification boards. Processing time varies depending on the evaluation type: Document-by-Document takes 3 days or less, and Course-by-Course takes 7 days or less. WES evaluations can streamline university selection processes and boost job search success rates. World Education Services (WES) gives a big hand when it comes to reaching education and career goals in the US and Canada for students, refugees, and immigrants. This non-profit org helps evaluate international degrees from over 48,000 higher ed institutions worldwide. Every year, WES evaluates more than 100,000 cases, makin' it the biggest credential evaluator in North America. They play a big role in helpin' students and alumni reach their academic and professional dreams. WES has some great products to make this process easier: * Free Degree Equivalency: An online tool that compares international degrees with US/Canada ones * WES ICAP: A service that sends verified transcripts and evaluation reports securely to institutions * WES Basic: A document evaluation service for essential needs * WES IGPA Calculator: Converts international grades to a 4.0 GPA scale If you're from India, WES has some good news for you - they've updated their policy to recognize select Indian master's degrees as equivalent to North American ones. But wait, do you need WES? It depends on the university or immigration programme requirements. Some popular universities in Canada and the US that require WES evaluation are UBC, UoFf, MIT, UPenn, Yale, Harvard, and Princeton. The WES process involves document collection, authentication, evaluation, analysis, and quality control. And it's not just about getting your documents evaluated - you need to get them authenticated too! The whole process takes around 7-10 days. Now, let's talk about the cost. It'll set you back $160, but you can pay extra for rush and express delivery. You'll also need your graduation certificate and academic transcripts ready. And don't worry, WES documents are valid for 5 years! So, there you have it - a quick rundown of WES evaluation. If you're planning to study or work in the US or Canada, make sure to check out WES services! The importance of a WES International Grade Point Average (GPA) Calculator lies in its ability to convert international grades into the US four-point GPA scale for academic and professional purposes. The necessity of a WES evaluation varies depending on the university or immigration program, with some institutions explicitly requesting it. While Canadian colleges may not mandate an Educational Credential Assessment (ECA), universities may require it, making it generally recommended for students to undergo ECA through WES. For Express Entry Canada PR applicants, an ECA is essential, and WES is one of the organisations providing this service. Other designated organisations include Comparative Education Service – University of Toronto School of Continuing Studies International Credential Assessment Service of Canada International Qualifications Assessment Service (IQAS) International Credential Evaluation Service - British Columbia Institute of Technology. In the USA, as well as for job seekers, WES evaluations may be required by certain institutions. Alternative agencies that provide Educational Credential Assessment (ECA) in the USA include Educational Credential Evaluators (ECE), Josef Silny & Associates International Education Consultants (JS&A), Educated Choices, LLC American Education and Translation Services (AET). WES offers two packages - WES ICAP and WES Basic. The table compares the features of both services, outlining their pricing. Features WES ICAP (Recommended) - Verified World Education Services transcripts stored and sent to institutions - WES document accreditation - Lists of all courses completed at the post-secondary level - U.S semester credit and grade equivalent for each course - U.S grade point average (GPA) on a 4.0 scale - Designates the level (upper or lower) of each undergraduate course WES Basic - Yes - Yes - Yes - No The policy aims to evaluate select master's degrees earned in India as equivalent to those conferred in the US or Canada, recognizing the strengthening Indian higher education system. Previously, WES evaluated some Indian master's degrees as Bachelor's or Post Graduate Diplomas due to differences in programme structure and credit systems. The new policy recognizes the academic rigour of certain Indian master's programmes, awarding them equivalent status to North American master's degrees. This applies to select master's degrees from accredited Indian universities, but a specific list isn't publicly available. You can use WES' degree equivalency tool or submit a full evaluation application for a definitive answer. The policy benefits Indian master's degree holders by allowing them to present their credentials as equivalent to North American degrees, opening doors for opportunities in graduate studies, professional licensing, and employment. It also recognizes the quality of Indian higher education and fosters academic internationalisation. Given text analysis: The World Education Services (WES) evaluation is a crucial step for international students applying to universities in Canada or the US. If unsure about the evaluation process, applicants can contact the admissions office for guidance. Other websites offering similar services include Educational Credential Evaluators Josef Silny & Associates, Inc., Education International, Inc., and WES itself. The cost of a WES evaluation varies depending on the applicant's status as an undergraduate, transfer, or graduate student. The current fees for WES evaluations are as follows: - Freshman admissions (document-by-document): $107 - Transfer admissions (course-to-course): $170 - Graduate admission (course-to-course): $170 Additional charges apply to international students, including shipping costs and reporting fees. It's essential to verify the current fees before applying for evaluation, considering submission deadlines. The WES credit evaluation process involves four basic steps: 1. Receiving and verifying documents. 2. Document analysis and evaluation by a team of analysts with country-specific knowledge. 3. Issuing an estimated date of completion. 4. Creating the credential evaluation report after quality control. The World Education Services (WES) is a non-profit organization that offers a widely recognized evaluation of foreign academic qualifications for admission to higher education in the United States and Canada. If you have completed your studies abroad, WES can help ensure that your credentials are accepted by American and Canadian institutions. The WES evaluation process is straightforward and can be completed online in as little as 7 business days. You will need to submit an application form, attach supporting documents such as transcripts and diplomas, and pay a fee for the service. There are different types of WES services available, including ICAP and ECA, which cater to different needs and purposes. While WES does not require International English Language Testing System (IELTS) scores, it primarily focuses on evaluating academic credentials. It is essential to choose between WES and other credential evaluation services like ICAS based on your individual needs and requirements. WES has made available a free online Degree Equivalency Tool that can be beneficial for international students. The organization also offers a range of resources and blogs to help you navigate the process, including information on education loan approval guarantees and repayment options. WES Evaluation Reports for International Students - A Guide The World Education Services (WES) evaluation reports are an essential tool for international students seeking to study or work abroad. With over 50,000 people relying on WES evaluations each year, it's clear that this service is widely recognized and trusted by universities, licensing boards, government agencies, and employers across the US and Canada. For Indian students looking to apply to US or Canadian universities for a master's or PhD program, submitting a WES evaluation report is often required. However, it's essential to note that each country has its unique education system, with different grading scales and standards. In the US, students are graded on a scale of 0-4, while in Canada, it's 0-10. Additionally, with over 1,050 universities in India, it can be challenging for international applicants to understand the quality of coursework and education offered by each institution. To address this issue, many US and Canadian universities request WES evaluations of college transcripts to compare scores in their respective education systems. However, it's crucial to note that a WES evaluation done for a US university cannot be used for a Canadian university, and vice versa. If you're applying to both Canadian and US universities, you'll need to submit separate reports for each country. This can add additional costs, so it's essential to shortlist specific universities that align with your education and career requirements. A WES evaluation provides a stamp of validity for international students' degrees from non-US institutions. While often required for master's and PhD admissions, it's also useful for job seekers in the US or Canada, as some employers request standardized college scores. Furthermore, WES evaluations are sometimes used in professional licensing, volunteer positions, immigration processes, and more. Not all US and Canadian colleges require WES evaluations, with around 2,500+ institutions working with WES to vet international applicants based on standardized college scores. It's essential to check your college and program's admission requirements to confirm if they require a WES evaluation report. WES recognizes over 48,000 global higher education institutions from more than 200 countries. In the case of Indian universities, WES clearly states that it refers to official authorities such as the University Grants Commission. WES Evaluation for International Credentials For Indian graduates looking to study or work abroad, WES (World Education Services) offers a credential evaluation report that can help verify their qualifications. If you're unsure about your university's recognition, you can use the free "WES Degree Equivalency Tool" to check. If your university is not listed on the tool, you can mail WES or provide additional documents for review. WES provides two types of credential evaluation reports: Document-by-Document and Course-by-Course. The Document-by-Document report contains a verified description of all credentials, including entry requirements, program length, and equivalency in US/Canadian education. The Course-by-Course report gives a detailed analysis of each course taken during the undergraduate program, including semester credit and grade equivalents. Both types of reports have different costs: $100 (₹8,100) for Document-by-Document and $160 (₹13,000) for Course-by-Course. The cost depends on your requirements and the type of evaluation needed. For jobs, immigration, or community college admissions, a Document-by-Document report is typically used. For university admissions, professional licenses, or other cases requiring a thorough course analysis, a Course-by-Course report is necessary. Before submitting an application, ensure you provide all required documents, including: Degree certificate (final or provisional) Statement of marks/all semester marks cards (attested) These documents must be issued by recognized educational institutions and signed/sealed in English. A credential evaluation from World Education Services (WES) isn't a strict necessity in the US and Canada; however, certain institutions there might request this document. The reason behind this is that a WES credential evaluation provides several benefits: it offers proof of your educational/professional background, helps organizations understand your qualifications, verifies the authenticity of your credentials, and compares them to local standards. Foreign-trained professionals in fields like medicine, engineering, and law often need to get their credentials evaluated to meet licensing requirements before practicing in these countries. For instance, during the application process for certain immigration visa categories, foreign degree holders must have their credentials evaluated to show that they're equivalent to the required standards. In such cases, US immigration agencies can accept WES credential evaluations. Similarly, in Canada, individuals with foreign education credentials need a WES evaluation to get an Educational Credential Assessment (ECA), which determines if their degree or diploma is equivalent to a Canadian credential. This assessment is necessary to earn education points in the Comprehensive Ranking System (CRS). Once you have all the required documents, applying for a WES evaluation report is a straightforward process. It usually happens after writing and completing exams to study abroad. Note that you'll need separate accounts for US and Canada if you're applying to universities in both countries. When mailing your documents, include your reference number on the sealed envelope. The report will be automatically sent to your chosen recipients (colleges of your choice) along with a copy to you. A Document-by-Document or Course-by-Course evaluation by WES takes about 7 business days after they receive and review all required documents and fees. However, this doesn't include the time needed for sending documents: anywhere from a couple of days if sent virtually to up to a week or more via post. To avoid extra delays, carefully review your documents before submitting them to WES. If you want to expedite the process, WES offers faster delivery options at an additional cost. There are two levels of service for WES reports: the basic report and the ICAP report. The basic report provides a total evaluation report of all your documents, while the ICAP report includes the evaluation report plus verified transcripts sent directly to your universities. The World Education Services (WES) is a recognized educational institution that offers credential evaluation services for international students and professionals. The WES ICAP evaluation provides an in-depth analysis of your documents, ensuring they meet US or Canadian standards. This assessment enables universities, companies, and immigration services to interpret and compare foreign qualifications, making it easier to apply for admission or secure a job. WES evaluation fees vary depending on the type of service chosen: - Document-by-Document Evaluation: $102 (USD) or ₹8,100 - Course-by-Course Evaluation: $163 (USD) or ₹13,000 It's essential to note that these fees do not include report delivery or additional costs. Many students have benefited from WES tools, such as SelectRight and FundRight, which provide data-driven insights for university selection and affordable loan options. WES evaluation is crucial for Canada-bound individuals, as it helps institutions and employers determine the equivalent of foreign credentials. While not every school requires a WES evaluation, it can significantly boost an applicant's credentials, making the admission or job application process smoother.
