Explanation Machu Picchu is believed to have been built by the Incas. The Incan civilization flourished in the Andean region of South America, specifically in present-day Peru, from the 13th to the 16th century. Machu Picchu is one of their most famous and remarkable architectural achievements, serving as a religious, political, and administrative center. The site's unique location, surrounded by mountains and hidden from view, suggests that it held great significance for the Incas. The precision and skill demonstrated in the construction of Machu Picchu reflect the advanced engineering and architectural knowledge of the Incan civilization. Explanation Machu Picchu is located in the Andes mountain range. The Andes is the longest mountain range in the world, stretching along the western coast of South America. Machu Picchu is situated in the southern region of Peru, nestled high in the Andes Mountains. This ancient Incan citadel is renowned for its breathtaking scenery and well-preserved ruins, making it a popular tourist destination and a UNESCO World Heritage site. Explanation The remains of Machu Picchu were discovered in 1911. Correct Answer Explanation The town is almost twice as high up as Denver, Colorado. Denver is known to be located at an elevation of around 5,280 feet, so if the town is almost twice as high, it would be around 9,000 feet above sea level. Correct Answer A. The Spaniards never found it Explanation Machu Picchu was hidden or difficult to access, making it harder for the invaders to discover and conquer it. Manage consent Why did Hiram Bingham's vision of Machu Picchu as the birthplace and end of the Inca civilization turn out to be inaccurate? Quiz Answer Key and Fun Facts 1. In what modern-day country is Machu Picchu located? 2. In what mountain range is Machu Picchu located? Answer: One stone used in the town's construction is estimated to weigh 300 tons. Archaeologists are unsure how it was moved in place at the top of a mountain. 3. About how many feet above sea level is Machu Picchu located? (Hint: It is almost twice as high up as Denver, Colorado, in the U.S.) Answer: By comparison, Denver, CO, in the U.S. is 5,280 feet (one mile) above sea level. The town of Kakani in Nepal in the Himalayan Mountains is 6,500 ft. above sea level. 4. In addition to its terraces and sophisticated water drainage system, what architectural feature is Machu Picchu widely known for? 5. Approximately how large is urban (upper town) Machu Picchu? (Hint: There are approximately 200 residences in the village.) Answer: Most of Machu Picchu's approximately 200 residences were probably homes for wealthy Inca nobility. The village walls were made with an inward inclination for protection against earthquakes. 6. What civilization is thought to have built Machu Picchu? Answer: The Incas were a highly-organized pre-Columbian civilization. Their last ruler, Tupac Amaru, was executed by the Spaniards invaded South America in the 16th century, they conquered all the other villages in this empire. Why was Machu Picchu left alone? 8. Why was Machu Picchu abandoned? Answer: No one really knows, but these are all possibilities The Inca Trail is a walking route that leads through the mountains above the Urubamba river, following (at least partly) the course of an old Inca roadway leading to the city of Machu Picchu. 9. The remains of Machu Picchu were discovered in what year? (Hint: The U.S. president at the time was William Howard Taft; Teddy Roosevelt would run for the presidency as the "Bull Moose" candidate the following year.) Answer: Machu Picchu was unknown to the outside world until July 24, 1911, when American archeologist Hiram Bingham stumbled upon the then-overgrown site. He later described the find in his book "Lost City of the Incas: The Story of Machu Picchu and its Builders." Roosevelt supporters bolted from the Republican Party and formed the Progressive Party in the 1912 U.S. presidency election (Roosevelt is often referred to as the "Bull Moose" candidate because of his remark to reporters "I am as fit as a bull moose.") Because they split the Republican vote in the 1912 election, Democrat Woodrow Wilson was elected the next U.S. president. 10. What was the name of the archeologist who discovered the remains of Machu Picchu in the 20th century? (Two hints: He did NOT discover either King Tut's tomb or the ancient city of Troy.)
